APPALACHIAN NATIONAL SCENIC TRAIL VOLUNTEER RECOGNITION PROGRAM – *HOURS OF SERVICE

INTRODUCTION

The Comprehensive Plan for the Appalachian National Scenic Trail includes a definition of the Appalachian Trail which states, “The body of the Trail is provided by the land it traverses, and its soul is in the living stewardship of the volunteers and workers of the Appalachian Trail Community.” ATC and the federal agencies are very proud of the volunteer commitment to protect and manage the Trail. This recognition program is offered by ATC and the Appalachian Trail Park Office (ATPO) as a means to thank A.T. volunteers for their contributions.

It is worth noting that some very dedicated volunteers reject the thought of formal recognition for their efforts. This program is not intended to force anyone to participate. It is an option to assist clubs who do not have the means to develop a recognition program of their own, as well as to provide an optional Trail-wide structure to complement existing programs.

THE PROGRAM

The Hours of Service recognition program is based on the cumulative hourly contributions of volunteers to the Appalachian Trail, and is administered by ATC through the local Trail Clubs. There are four levels of awards and a range of hours appropriate for each award level. Each local Trail Club decides whether or not to participate in this program component, and how to structure their participation within the guidelines provided. This structure recognizes the wide spectrum of current Club and agency volunteer recognition programs while attempting to complement these programs and provide a system for Clubs without a program.

For example, a cap is available in recognition of volunteer efforts within the range of 500 to 1000 hours. Each Club determines exactly how many hours qualify a Club volunteer for a cap within that range. One Club may settle on 500 hours, another Club on 750 hours. A Club which already has a club-based program which awards a volunteer for 500 hours of service may choose to also award that volunteer with a cap for that same number of hours, or set another number of hours.

Award items are available to Clubs on an as-needed basis. Vests are size specific and may need to be ordered due to limited stock stored in our office. Individual volunteers are responsible for tracking and reporting their hours of service to their Club. Each Club is responsible for providing hours of service information to ATC when requesting award items with the exception of pins. Recipients of pins will not be tracked by ATC and are available to clubs upon request for work trips and events to recognize not only club members, but anyone who the club would like to recognize for a day or more of service.
